

Hattiesburg Area Historical Society

doesn't expect to Set the World on Fire ...

BUT

with your support HAHS can continue to collect, preserve, and record a people's history of the local area and to make this history interesting, available, and fun and useful for improving the future.

Like the little engine who said, "I think I can...."
HAHS has chugged uphill in 1985.

- Negatives and pictures from the Main Street studio created much interest and will continue to benefit the Society.
- An arrangement added 3 upstairs rooms a few doors from the Museum for archival materials. Carpenter work in 2 rooms is complete. Painters are needed.
- HAHS Museum exhibited "Miss. Patent Models" from the Dept. of Archives and History.
- Aviation in South Miss., How Old House People Do It, and Book Talk program meetings were well attended.
- A Historical Demi-Course series began at the Museum. Ghost Stories of the Uwarries was read to an interested group of children the day of the Good Life Down South Festival.
- Three groups of patients from Monroe Hall were escorted on guided tours of Hattiesburg.
- 1986 Calendars, PAST and PRESENT, comparing past area scenes with the same scene today will be available in time for Christmas.
- HAHS constantly furnishes miscellaneous information to an interesting variety of people.
- Criteria for the HAHS roster of Historic Homes and other Buildings has been adopted and will be used for a spring tour.
- Special thanks to John Burrus, Hattie Pearl Lea, and Neil McMillen for serving as Directors on HAHS Board 1983-1985.
- 1986 Officers: Jacq Jones; Tom Rhea Phillips, Jr.; Jeanette Coleman; Elma McWilliams; and A J Jones. Board of Directors: 1984-1986 Joyce Cartier, W. D. MEMBERSHIP DUES continue to be the Society's main support with memorials and gifts next. While most history books deal with presidents and kings and world events, it takes local people like you, spiced with a few displaced supporters, to give the authenticity and personal touch unique to HAHS' purpose of collecting and publicizing local history. The broader the base of membership, the more complete the Society's coverage.....
