

“The bank’s record is one of success. At no time in its history has there been a season where it was not succeeding... After the calamitous storm of September 1906 [unnamed hurricane that hit Pascagoula], the hardest trial Hattiesburg had, which destroyed some $10,000,000 worth of timber in this section, Hattiesburg took a stand to fight for what she had—to hold her own, harvest her resources and not give back to nature all that which she had wrestled from her.

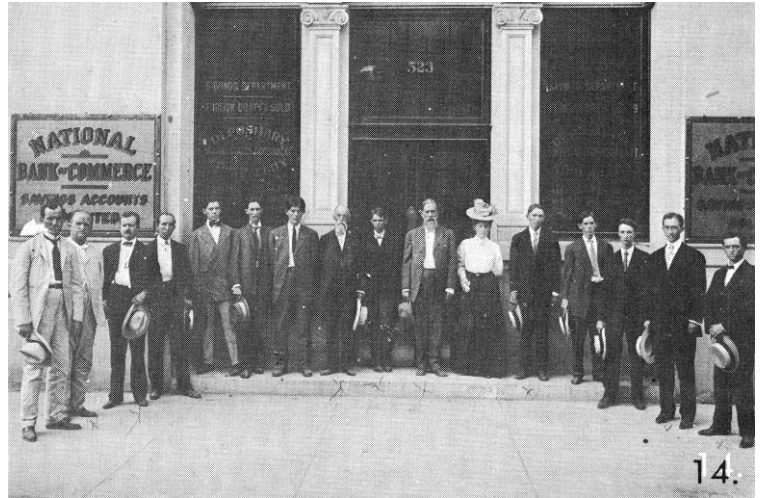

“Scarcely had the work of saving and marketing such down timber as was possible been accomplished before the fearful panic of 1907 fell upon us with a fury that threatened the very foundations of the financial existence of this section. The panic was a terrible blow, and it took the heart out of many, and caused some to fall by the wayside.

“Hattiesburg again took her stand and fought to defend home and fireside, capital and business, and while the weary days passed into weeks, months and years, not once did the community fail in its duty. In time after so much patience and effort, the cloud began to break, and Hattiesburg again came into her own.

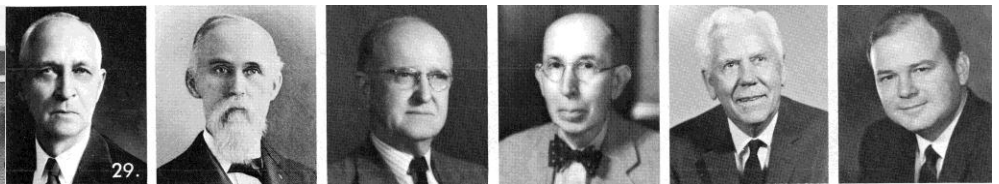

“During all these turmoils, trials and tribulations this bank was the financial backbone of this section of Mississippi. Its ability to carry its customers through and make them additional advances, give courage to its distressed customers, with the assurance that it could and would see them through, is largely what held Hattiesburg and the surrounding country together... The bank had more than selfish responsibility—it had the interests of the entire community to safeguard.”

Today only the front façade and an open courtyard remain at the original Main Street location and the bank operates under the BancorpSouth name from a building located at the intersection Hardy and Pine Streets.

Mr. Foote’s words should be taken to heart now. Hopefully Hattiesburg will maintain the same attitude and emerge triumphantly from the current crisis.

THE REST OF THE STORY

We knew the large green box on the back shelf had been an HRD playground first aid kit until the 1980's, but had thought little about it until Nancy McMillan walked in with an almost identical one.

They obviously had been made at the same time by the same people, but the empty one we had was marked HRD on the outside and Nancy's, marked Girl Scouts, was fully packed. The insides of both lids were marked "made by Girl Scout Troop 20."

Best of all, the new box included "The Rest of the Story"—an April 29, 1959 Hattiesburg American article "Girls Scouts Provide First Aid Boxes for HRD Playgrounds."

"Intermediate Girl Scout Troop 20 has made and equipped for the Hattiesburg Recreation Department ten first aid boxes, which will be placed at the various playgrounds in the city.

Willis Terry, HRD director, furnished materials for the project; and Scouts secured the services of John J. deVink and R. J. Elfert for construction, free of charge. Mr. deVink has a daughter in Troop 20 and Mr. Elfert formerly had a granddaughter in the group.

Scouts did the painting, shopped for supplies, and assembled the items in each box. Troop 20 also expressed appreciation to Ted Schroeder of the Medical Arts Pharmacy for furnishing supplies at wholesale prices and Bob Waller for photography work....

In connection with the project, Troop 20 scouts achieved the first aid badge and completed a portion of first class rank. Members of the troop are: Basha Bass, Judy Hathorn, Dorothy Koch, Jolie McGowin, Nancy McMillan, Roblyn Rollins, Helen Robertson, Carole Wentworth, Helen Wellborn, Julia Welborn, Helen Virginia Lopez, Gail Mccoy, Mary deVink, Alice Eure, Kay freeman and Becky Markette.

Mrs. H. W. McMillan is leader and Mrs. John deVink is assistant leader."
